Graduating from West Point in 1946 with a bachelor of science in general engineering, he was commissioned a Second Lieutenant in the U.S. Army and served in Korea as well as other military duty stations for the next four years.

He began his General Motors career in 1950 as a college graduate in training at the Delco-Remy Division in Anderson, Indiana. He served in various personnel, production control, and manufacturing capacities and in 1967 was promoted to Manufacturing Manager. In 1969 he was appointed Works Manager of the Hydra-matic Division, a position he held until 1973 when he was promoted to his present assignment as General Manager of the Hydra-matic Division.

He continued his education at the University of Pittsburgh, the Harvard School of Business in Antigua, Guatemala and the University of Michigan. He spent two years on active duty with the Army Air Corps during WW II.

Advancing through several levels within the international electric power industry, he became Vice-President of Operations of the Canadian Electric Power Company and then in 1977 assumed his present position as President, Compania Boliviana de Energia Electrica—Bolivian Power Company.

He served for an extended period as President of the American Chamber of Commerce in Bolivia and is active in many other professional and civic organizations. He has provided international leadership in the vital field of electric energy and shared his talents through civic involvement as a citizen of the western hemisphere.

After working as an editorial assistant on Webster's New International Dictionary and as an assistant professor of mathematics at Macalester College, he came to the then Rose Polytechnic Institute as an instructor of mathematics in 1937. From 1937 until his retirement in 1974, he rose through the professorial ranks to become Professor and Chairman of the Mathematics Department. During his 37 year tenure at Rose-Hulman, he was active in educational and professional organizations, represented Rose-Hulman at the International Congress of Mathematics on three occasions, instituted the degree program in mathematics and was the first director of the Waters Computing Center.
